Anatomy of a Workout: Is There a New Playbook?

The current economic expansion is going into its 93 month and is now the 3rd longest economic expansion in history. Corporate debt (excluding the financial sector) recently exceeded the all-time high levels that occurred prior to the 2008-09 recession.

With record level debt, defaults have been very low during this expansion. Interest rates bottomed in 2015 and the federal reserve has increased the federal fund rates three times in 2017 and is expected to increase them 3-4 times during 2018.

"Removing the easy money punch bowl could trigger the next default cycle," S&P Global Ratings wrote in a recent report titled "Debt High, Defaults Low -- Something's Gotta Give."

We have arranged for a panel of loan workout experts for this presentation. The panel includes:

Robert Riiska, Senior Vice President, Focus Management Group
David Scheiber, SVP and Head of Special Assets, Boston Private Bank
Barry Smith, esq., Chair Financial Intuitions Group, Buchalter Nemer

Moderator:

Jeff Brandlin – President, Brandlin & Associates
